Convergences: Trauma Theory, Narrative Medicine, & Ethics

A Talk by Dr. Aimee Pozorski
Professor of English, Central Connecticut State University

Via readings of Holocaust testimony, AIDS memoirs, and cancer literature, we shall consider convergences in two ways: the coming together of theoretical models as well as the coming together of individuals in an ethical relation.

Within these two convergences, we will consider: How do literature and theory function to bring people together? What does each owe the other? What is ethical about the written word?

Sponsored by the Harry Jack Gray Distinguished Teaching Humanist

When
4:00 PM on Thursday, April 26

Where
Dana 201 / Mali 1

For Info
highberg@hartford.edu

Dr. Pozorski is the author of Falling After 9/11: Crisis in American Art and Literature (Bloomsbury Academic, 2014) and Roth and Trauma: The Problem of History in the Later Works (Bloomsbury Academic, 2014).

She is currently at work on a new book, AIDS: Trauma and Politics.